

“This four-day intensive provided a platform on which something extra-ordinary occurred. Peter Bregman is uber-smart, tremendously insightful, powerfully vulnerable (not an oxymoron), and deeply inspiring. He weaves all of this into a workshop that I dare say personally changed every single participant, including Peter himself. During time together, he gently modeled and led each of us to garner the emotional courage to get to our edge; just where we would hope to take our clients. From this place, everything is possible and was possible! WOW!—it was beyond powerful. We came as individual coaches and left as a cohesive supportive family. If I write more, you may think I exaggerate and discount my words ... but, if you believe in magic...”

—Jody Gelfand

“As an Executive Coach for many years, I have attended a variety of coaching skills training programs. The Bregman Leadership Coaching Training is the most powerful 4 days I have spent. The workshop design was superb – blending the right amount of skills practice using the Bregman QUICC model while setting aside time for focusing on our own personal development through yoga, meditation and reflective experiential activities. It was a profound 4 days! Peter masterfully facilitated the workshop, with his elegantly simple frameworks and clear guidance. If you want to deepen your coach skill set, learn more about yourself, take risks in a safe environment and develop strong relationships with like-minded participants, this is the workshop for you!”

—Carol Salloway

“If you’ve read any of his books or followed his blog, you already know the quality of Peter Bregman's thinking, creativity and heart. After attending his 4 day training for coaches, I can assure you that he is the real deal and even more impressive in person. Peter is a great storyteller, making the training lively, rich, and easy to absorb. But the training is not about Peter .. it is about doing great work with clients and making a difference to individuals and organizations.

What most impressed me about his methodology for coaching is that is as efficient as it is deep. That is a golden combination. I don't have much tolerance for fluff, and this training was very practical, deeply personal, and delightfully playful. (Added bonus: the training also provided opportunity for deep connections with other participants and in many cases profound personal transformations.) If you're interested in deepening your work with clients while also increasing your efficiency, this training is for you. And don't be surprised if you come out knowing yourself a whole lot better!”

—Nan Reed Twiss

“The Bregman Leadership Coaching program was for me the cherry on the cake. Having participated in a variety of coaching and leadership development programs over the last five years—all of which contributed to my personal and professional growth—I found it altogether possible to complement my knowledge and skillset with something entirely new. The laser-sharp, outcome-oriented focus Peter Bregman’s QUICC™ method requires was the most valuable takeaway for me. Others might find the emotional dimension that is lacking from so many academically oriented executive coaching programs to be the game changer. No matter how experienced a coach you are, you will walk away from this training with something valuable and new. In the process, you will stretch your mind and your muscles while opening your heart to the poetry and music of being simply human. I take it back: make that two cherries on the cake!”

—Kim Derderian

“I went to the Bregman Coach Training to become a stronger coach. I returned with a lot more. The knowledge, insights, counsel and the community support at this training helped me become a much stronger and more compassionate communicator. That in turn improved my relationship with my family, co-workers as well as with my own self as I learned to approach each moment with the objective curiosity of a scientist. I could not recommend this course highly enough to any who seek to understand, to be understood, to inspire and to be inspired in their daily interactions. And yes, you learn what it takes to become a great coach as well!”

—Abhishek Gupta

“Peter’s training is definitely different and of highest value. The integration of emotional courage, awareness, vulnerability and being in service for the coachee whilst being in contact with yourself are the key aspects which makes Peter’s Training so beneficial.

He authentically embodies all these elements in an inspiring way which propels the participants forward. That makes his teaching and sharings of his vast experience so unique.

I truly believe that he is a pioneer in bringing this kind of Leadership into the business world.”

—Daniela Zambrana Weymann

“I highly recommend the Bregman Leadership Coach Training Program. It challenged and stretched me as an executive coach and as a person, yielded some pretty major 'ahas,' and is leading to some marked changes in my life and professional practice. Thank-you Peter and Emily for an extraordinary 4.5 days together!”

—Heather Worosz, Executive Leadership Coach, British Columbia, Canada

“Being a veteran of many training and instructor training programs, I was impressed by the focus and intensity of the experience. It truly combined mind, body and practice into a complete package. What differentiates the Bregman approach from others I have participated in is the investment of Peter and Emily in the experience.

They were truly with us every step of the way, in all aspects of the training. By contrast, in some programs it feels like the leaders are there for us but keeping some distance from the experience. That is not the case with the Bregman training. Another difference is the sense of community that was established among all the participants. We grew to know, love and respect each other and wanted to continue to stay connected after the training. Participating in the Bregman training includes membership in a caring and supportive community.”

—Mark Bertler

“The Coach Training Workshop was fabulous. Peter exemplifies the best of everything he teaches. The QUICC method was fantastic as it is focused and quickly facilitates momentum for the client. Aside from learning the methodology and getting a great refresher on coaching, it was great to connect with other professionals in meaningful and heartfelt connection. I would recommend the course for anyone whether you are an experienced coach or just beginning.”

—Marilyn Momeny