I understand this Teaching for Diversity yoga class is funded by the Kripalu Yoga and Ayurveda Association (KYAA) and that KYAA routinely collects inspirational stories and takes photographs of students to promote the benefits of participating in its classes and other activities. Promotional stories and/or photos may appear in various Kripalu publications, on its website, and also in other publications and media made available to the general public.

In addition, I understand that KYAA uses photography, video footage, and audio recordings to capture the Teaching for Diversity experience and build a sense of community among all its financial supporters, teaching faculty, and students. To accomplish both these purposes, I understand that stories, photographs, video footage, and audio recordings of me may appear in various KYAA and other publications, be posted on the Kripalu website, and on Facebook, other social media sites, or other websites with which Kripalu is affiliated.

Whenever photographs or video footage are being taken, I understand that I can tell the photographer that I do not want to have pictures or video of me taken, or I can move to a place in the room that is not being photographed. I further understand that any photos or video footage taken are owned by KYAA and copies are not accessible to third parties including those whose images are featured.

Having read and understood the above, I hereby consent to being the subject of any still photographs, video footage, and/or audio recordings taken by KYAA. In giving my consent, I am aware that KYAA intends to publish the photographs and/or video footage taken of me and property owned by me, along with any audio recordings made of my voice, in ways that promote KYAA, support Kripalu's nonprofit mission, and foster community as detailed above. Knowing this, I hereby authorize KYAA to use and publish my image, likeness, and/or voice as still photographs, audio recordings, transparencies, motion picture, television, video, or Internet images.

I hereby release Kripalu and its agents from any and all claims for damages related to the use of my image, likeness, and voice as stated above.
